

Ike Says US Will Do Its Best To Help in Refugee Problem

Nixon Delivers This Message To Austrians

VIENNA (AP)—President Eisenhower today promised the United States would do everything in its power to help solve the problem created by hordes of Hungarian refugees crowding Austria and still crossing through the Iron Curtain to freedom.

The President's promise was contained in a letter delivered by Vice President Richard M. Nixon to Austrian Chancellor Julius Raab shortly before the American official set out on a visit to refugee camps not far from the border.

A high official source said Nixon already believed the United States should admit more Hungarians. Eisenhower has ordered 21,500 admitted by the end of the year.

Eisenhower in his letter to Raab said Nixon was acting as his personal representative in an effort to find a solution of a problem which had deeply touched the American people—the flight of more than 140,000 Hungarians in search of protection.

Nixon, the President went on, will study the living conditions of the refugees in Austrian camps and talk with responsible Austrian officials in an effort to find the full extent of the problem and recommend further steps by the United States.

Nixon saw Raab briefly to deliver the letter shortly after he had paid his respects to Austria's 83-year-old President Theodor Koerner.

Nixon handed a similar letter from Eisenhower to Koerner. After his round of courtesy visits, Nixon was driven to Neusiedl am See, in Burgenland Province and only 10 miles from where the Hungarians are crossing into this country.

The vice president left his car at a street corner in the village to shake hands with local officials. In Eisenhower's name, he thanked them for the help they had granted the refugees. The officials took him into an office to point out on a map the concentrations of refugees and the routes they take in coming over the border.

The U.S. vice president will visit Salzburg, in west Austria near the West German border, before leaving for Munich and the United States Saturday. He expects to be back in Washington by Christmas Eve.

Nixon said on his arrival that he hoped "to obtain as accurate information as is possible under the circumstances as to the number of refugees the United States should be prepared to receive." He added that "we are fully determined to do our full share in meeting the needs which have grown out of the refugee problem."

Austrian officials not only want the United States to take more of the refugees straining the facilities of this little country but also want Washington to give additional financial aid for those who remain. About 70,000 refugees are believed still in Austria and from 500 to 1,000 are still arriving daily.

Among those Nixon will confer with in Austria is Auguste R. Lindt, the new U.S. high commissioner for refugees. Lindt came here today with a promise of two million dollars in U.N. funds for refugee relief.

Finds Hundreds in Hall--

Nixon Visits Village Near Border for First Hand View

ANDAU, Austria (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon visited this village only two miles from the Hungarian border today to view at first hand the condition of Hungarian refugees.

The village is one of the principal stations on the route used by nearly 140,000 Hungarians in their freedom flight from communism's iron suppression. In a village dance hall he found hundreds of refugees—some getting their soup from a kitchen in the middle of the floor, others were lying on straw around the hall.

The dance hall is one of the first reception centers for refugees after they cross the border. The village has a population of about 1,500. Many of the villagers have put up refugees in their homes.

Nixon tasted the soup and said it was good. He spoke to and shook hands with dozens of Hungarians.

One of them was a young man of 20 with no legs and only one arm. He told the vice president he had to leave Budapest because he had distributed anti-Communist leaflets. The boy had dragged himself 12 miles to reach the border.

Nixon told him: "I have seen many examples of courage in the war, but nothing to equal yours."

A cheer greeted Nixon and some of the refugees shouted: "Long live American-Hungarian friendship."

In a short speech, the vice president conveyed to the refugees the greetings of the season. He promised that those who went to the United States would get a hearty welcome.

He had learned how to say "hello" and "Merry Christmas" in Hungarian and used the expressions often in speaking to children.

Leaving the dance hall, Nixon tramped through the muddy street shaking the hands of Hungarians and asking them what they wanted to do. He visited the village school where many rooms were crowded with refugee families with children.

He then drove to Eisenstadt, the point where refugees are collected for transport to the interior and other countries. He had lunch with the governor of Burgenland, Johann Wagner.

Wm. Lydon Goes on Trial In Hodge Case

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—William D. Lydon, whose Chicago decorating firm contracted with ex-Auditor Orville E. Hodge, will be tried March 4 in Sangamon County Circuit Court on charges he conspired with Hodge and others to defraud the state.

Lydon, suspended from the Chicago police force in connection with the Hodge scandal, pleaded innocent yesterday and asked that 11 counts of two indictments against him be quashed.

Circuit Judge Dewitt S. Crow squashed one of the counts but ruled the others should stand.

Frank Oliver of Chicago, Lydon's attorney, moved to quash on the grounds the counts were confusing and contradictory.

State's Atty. J. Waldo Ackerman said he will probably try first a seven-count indictment which charges that Lydon conspired to obtain $88,787 under false pretenses. The charge involved Hodge, Edward Epping, who was Hodge's office manager, and Edward Hintz, resigned president of the Southmost Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago.

Hodge, Epping and Hintz are serving prison terms after pleading guilty to conspiracy in the mammoth fraudulent check scheme.

Ike to Light Large Yule Tree Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will press a button at nightfall to light a 67-foot national community Christmas tree.

Signaling the beginning of the Yule observance, Eisenhower also will speak to the nation briefly over CBS radio and ABC radio and television.

Time: 5:15 p.m. EST.

Mrs. Eisenhower planned to join the President in the annual ceremony in grounds near the White House.

Ike, Nehru Say Relations Are Helped

Talks Confirm Broad Areas of US, India Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Nehru said today their talks here had confirmed a "broad area of agreement" between India and the United States in world affairs. The two national leaders summed up the results of Nehru's four-day visit here in a final communique issued at the White House.

Simultaneously Nehru himself, at National Airport before taking off on the first leg of his trip home, said the talks with Eisenhower had strengthened Indian-American "bonds of friendship and understanding."

The statement from the White House said Eisenhower and Nehru had gained "greater understanding" of each other's policy. It added that this would promote their efforts to achieve international peace and friendship.

Eisenhower and Nehru held their last conversation at the Indian Embassy last night. Eisenhower was Nehru's dinner guest there and they talked together for more than an hour.

Today Nehru headed for a round of meetings with United Nations officials and American friends in New York, after which he will spend a weekend in Canada. Eisenhower's personal plane was put at his disposal for the trip.

The joint statement preserved the official cloak of secrecy which has surrounded the talks from their beginning Sunday.

Nonetheless, high U.S. officials familiar with the issues taken up, said that the conferences had been very successful from the American viewpoint.

Nehru also appeared to feel that he had achieved his objectives in meeting with the President.

The formal statement reported that the talks were "full and frank." It affirmed the support of the two leaders for "the highest principles of free democracy." It emphasized that India and the United States share a common devotion to "respect for the dignity of man."

SANTA AND HIS HELPERS—The Sedalia Jaycees accompanied Santa Claus to the rural schools and the crippled children's class at the Immanuel Evangelical Church. ## Jaycees Provide His Escort--

Santa Takes Sacks of Candy To Rural Grade School Children

Only a person who has had the experience of riding around with Santa Claus to visit children can know the thrill that a group of members of the Jaycees had Tuesday when, with their boxes loaded with sacks of candy and oranges, they took Santa around over Pettis County to visit children in the rural schools.

One place Santa went was to the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church educational building, where a little group of crippled children are being taught by Mrs. George West. Of all the children, Santa thought they were the happiest to see him, and they showed him some of the things they were making and how they could work.

Then away went Old Santa and his Jaycee friends over frozen country roads, sometimes slipping and sliding on the ice, but they had fun. Most of the children were delighted to see Santa, but one little toughie got smart, pulled Santa's beard and kicked the seat of his pants. Santa can be expected to take care of him on Christmas Eve.

A few youngsters admitted they had been a little bad but resolved to be better, and one school seemed to be a bunch of door slammers but thought they might try closing the door a little easier.

The eyes of the children twinkled every time Santa went in a school room. It was something for Santa's helpers to see the children of so many grades in one room and they thought Santa should give those teachers extra special gifts for Christmas.

Santa thought that the greatest need this year was for front teeth. He never remembered seeing so many children before that needed front teeth.

One little boy was thrilled no end with the sight of Santa. He almost got hysterical when he saw him. "It is wonderful to see Santa," he shrieked, "I never saw him but once before and now to think he is right here before me." He was the most thrilled, too, over Santa's gift of candy and oranges.

Most of the schools had full attendance, but Santa left a gift for those who were sick and couldn't be there, too.

Some of the children wanted only one or two things; others had a list, some said they would be happy with just anything. One little girl insisted she didn't need anything at all, she had everything. The boys for the most part wanted things like bikes and trains, some wanted an electric radar set, the girls wanted dolls and little boys wanted popguns while the older ones wanted rifles. The older girls wanted clothes, and one little girl wanted just one thing—a Bible.

Santa found the children very polite; practically all of them said "Thank you."

The youngsters had a wonderful time at the rural schools Tuesday—but so did Santa and his helpers.

Reds Use Old System of Jail Without Trial

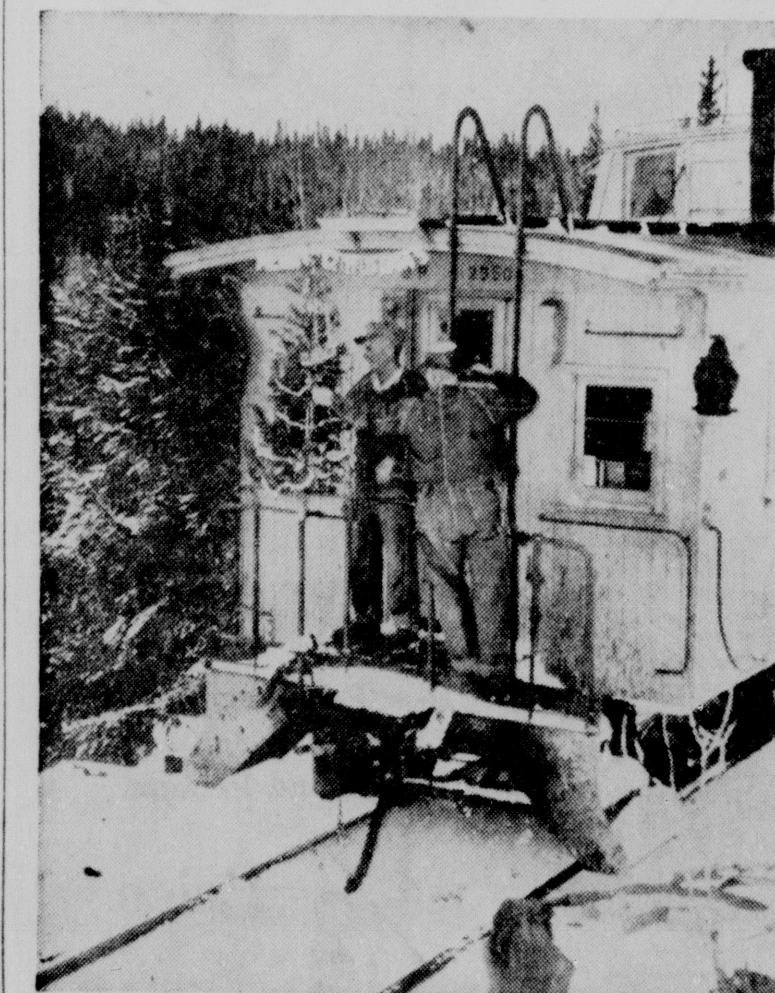

BUDAPEST (AP)—The Russian-backed Hungarian government has re-established the dreaded internment system under which thousands of people were jailed without trial during the Stalin era.

A decree issued by the Presidential Council said that "Persons whose activity of behavior endangers public order, especially production, can be placed under detention of public security." The maximum detention period was set at six months.

The decree did not mention internment but used instead the expression "detention of public security." It was not published in the government press, which is on sale to the population, but only in the official gazette, which has a very limited circulation.

The practice of detaining persons without trial was abolished in 1953 when Imre Nagy became prime minister for the first time. The abolition was a popular action.

Students Hold Mass Protest In Famagusta

Leader Is Wounded When Police, British Patrols Break It Up

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—More than 1,000 high school students demonstrated today against Britain's offer of limited self-rule to rebellious Cyprus. Leaders of the island Colony's Greek majority and Turkish minority firmly rejected the proposal.

Police and British military patrols broke up the demonstration at Famagusta, on the east coast. They said the 17-year-old leader of the march was shot and wounded in the shoulder when he ran after being ordered to halt.

The police and troops fired into the air to disperse the students, who marched through Famagusta's main streets shouting: "Down with the constitution!" Twenty-three of the boys and girls were taken to the police station.

It was the first student demonstration in several months in Famagusta, one of the island's chief ports.

Despite the general opposition on Cyprus, constitutional proposals did open the way for a resumption of talks between Britain and Archbishop Makarios, exiled leader of the Greek Cypriots.

Cyprus' Greek-roigin residents, about four fifths of the 500,000 population, insist that Makarios is the only person with whom Britain can negotiate.

Britain deported the high Greek Orthodox churchman to the Seychelle Islands in the Indian Ocean last March, charging him with directing the campaign of violence waged since 1954 the EOKA underground. Makarios was the leader of the Greek-Cypriot drive for independence of Cyprus and eventual union with Greece.

Two British representatives meet with the archbishop today to explain Britain's new proposal for a constitution.

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd, announcing the offer in the House of Commons in London, emphasized that the talks with Makarios might be opening a way for his release. British leaders have said he can win his freedom by denouncing the use of force as a political instrument.

The British proposals met the sharpest rejection from Greek Cypriot leaders and from the Greek government because they did not set a date for granting self-determination for Cyprus. It is considered certain that such a plebiscite would find the Greek majority moving quickly to make the island a political part of Greece.

Lennox-Boyd told Commons Britain's offer hinges on the restoration of peace, law and order in Cyprus.

The proposed constitution would leave a British governor in full control of defense, foreign policy and internal security in Cyprus. The governor also could rule by decree during emergencies.

The plan would assure the Greek majority 24 of the 30 elected seats in a new Legislature. The governor would appoint 6 other members.

The proposals also raised the long-range possibility of partitioning the strategic island as one means of reaching a solution between the Greek and Turkish communities. Turkey is opposed to the movement for union with Greece, contending the island should go back to Turkish control if British rule is ended.

Themistocles Dervis, mayor of Nicosia and a leading Greek Cypriot spokesman, termed the British plan a "mockery of a self-governing constitution."

Dr. Fazil Kutchuk, chairman of the Cyprus-Turkish party, declared the proposed constitution is unacceptable because "none of the points we have put forward have been met."

Farm and Home Planning Group Meetings

Beginning Jan. 2 and continuing through the month, I will be working with Mr. Lewellen in the group meetings of the Farm and Home Planning Association.

The subject to be discussed at these meetings will be "Home Grounds Improvement and Gardening". Each family will want to have the garden soil tested so as to get off to the right start with their 1957 garden. If in doubt about the lawn it is a good idea to also have that soil tested.

Decorate Your Christmas Table
Gum-Drop Tree — Cut a 12-15 inch branch from a hedge tree, dip it in a thin flour paste or paint it with silver paint and while it is still wet, sprinkle it with artificial snow. When the tree is dry, mount it in a covered tin can filled with sand. On the tip end of each branch, place a small colored gum drop.

Apple Santa Claus — The children will enjoy these if they are placed before each plate. Polish shiny red apples. Fasten a marshmallow on top with a toothpick for the head, and a red gumdrop on top of that for the cap. Put a line of cotton around his neck, down his front, and around the middle. Make the features and buttons with whole cloves.

Cellophane Tree — Use a hat-stand or fasten a round stick on a base, cover it with cellophane. Buy clear or green colored glassips (cellophane straws). Dip the end of each one in red sealing wax, and beginning at the bottom tie them around the hatstand. Cut each new layer a little shorter until the very top ones are quite short.

Decorations Can Be Pretty and Fireproof, Too

Christmas festivities center around the home so you'll want it looking its best. Here are a few hints that will save time and trouble during the busy holidays — and a tip or two that will add pleasure as well as safety to Christmas decorating.

Decorating is more fun if you outfit a large market basket with evergreens, ribbon, scissors and string. You'll be able to make the rounds with a minimum of steps. Christmas spirit will permeate the house if you spray a pine scent around the rooms. Waxing attachment of a vacuum cleaner or hand-operated spray gun does a fine job.

For "snow" underneath the tree, glass wool is fine. If you must use cotton, fireproof it, too.

May Become Nation's First Private City

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ever hear of a community without public streets?

One whose residents drive in at gates where guards turn others away with "Sorry, these are private roads"? Or at other gates which property owners open electronically by slipping a card into a slot?

Such a place is exclusive Rolling Hills on the Palos Verdes Peninsula south of here — four square miles of eucalyptus-shaded, ranch-type homes which soon may become the nation's first private city.

Many of its residents, seeing threats to their card-in-the-slot privacy, want to incorporate.

If incorporation wins in the election slated for next Jan. 8 they say the gates of the new municipality definitely will stay closed to all but residents. And, as now, there will be no stores or shops, no business. Even government will be minimized.

Rolling Hills' 1,200 well-heeled residents think their privacy is worth fighting for. Their children play in relative safety along shady lanes. Sixty per cent of the families own horses. Riding trails thread the area, which overlooks the ocean and the metropolis, with its sea of night-time lights.

There is elbow room—most lots are an acre to several acres. Most of all there is freedom from smog and screeching, bumper-to-bumper traffic.

But there has been disturbing talk of being annexed by the neighboring industrial city of Torrance, or by some subdivision which might get incorporation fever.

The spearhead of incorporation, Atty. Owen F. Goodman, believes that incorporation would strengthen the community's legal position for maintaining its privacy.

Municipal services — police and fire protection, health services, tax collection, etc., would be contracted for with the county, which now provides them in return for taxes.

Slayer Will Remain In Prison Full Term

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The slayer of Leon Trotsky will have to serve out his full 20-year prison sentence which ends Aug. 20, 1960.

A final Court of Appeals had rejected the petition of Jacques Mornard, trying since 1954 to get his freedom under a law permitting release for good behavior after serving two thirds of a sentence.

The three judges' unanimous ruling said Mornard remains a dangerous criminal, that he has shown no repentance for killing the exiled Russian revolutionary in 1940, and that he still won't answer questions about his real identity and why he killed Trotsky.

Workmen Find Bonds

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—Workmen at a metal firm discovered twenty-three $50 government bonds in the locked compartment of a battered old safe being prepared for shipment to a steel mill. The safe had arrived in a load of scrap metal. Police were trying to contact the owner of the bonds.

Missourians Take Time Out For Unusual Happenings

By CLARENCE A. JOHNSON
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Missourians took time out during the more serious things of 1956 to smile at the sayings and doings of their neighbors.

There was a national election, a drought and the business of making a living. But these things were made a little easier by the strange and unusual items that popped up in the news of the Show-Me state.

Youngsters—from 6 to 99 — figured in most of them.

Imagine the embarrassment of the parents who took their 6-year-old to hear Zvi Zeitlin, guest violinist at a Sedalia Symphony concert. In the silence after the artist had finished, the lad started to walk out, piped:

"I've had all of this I can take."

A Buchanan County woman past 80 asked County Clerk Floyd Inman to have her first name changed on the voter registration list from Patricia to Patsy "because it sounds younger." Inman obliged.

And if you didn't get to the polls on election day think of James H. Joslin, Grassy, Mo. He is 99. Yet he showed up to vote at Marble Hill and brought along his "kid" brother, Leander, who is 88.

Amid the news there was proof that patience is not a forgotten virtue.

Police at St. Joseph were called to check up on a man who had been sitting in a parked car from 8 a.m. to past 3 p.m. Explained the sifter:

"I'm from the country. I'm just waiting for my wife."

Some 60 years ago Lee Dunn, Sabula, traded horses with Mat Phelps of Leeper and agreed to pay him $38 in the deal the first time he got to Leeper. Dunn finally got to Leeper last May, dropped in on Phelps and paid him. The towns are 20 miles apart.

Public officials always have their ups and downs. This year was no exception.

At Moberly Mrs. Luther Thomas complained the assessor came twice to her corner home, once to the front door and once to the side one. As a result, she said, she had been assessed twice and her tax should be halved. The city council agreed, refunded her $174.

John Showers, a Joplin detective, answered a burglar report at a church. He went into the dark interior with pistol drawn, felt his way down some steps and found himself knee-deep in water. Showers had walked into the baptismal tank. The burglar, if there was one, got away, probably dry.

The city treasurer of St. Joseph got a letter from a man who said he used to be a gambler there and owed the city 45 cents in taxes. He said it always had troubled his conscience. Enclosed were four poker chips, one blue, two red and one white.

At Kennett, Carl Hoke, taking a state drivers' license examination, piloted his car into a parked highway patrol car. Said the district captain later: "Hoke is believed to have failed the test."

There were times during the year that romance went off the traditional path.

At Savannah, Thomas R. Wilkes, Edgemont, S. D. and Blanche B. Gillespie were married. They comprised the Savannah High School graduating class in 1908.

A Springfield man got a marriage license application, filled in the name of the prospective bride and left. The next day he was back, got another application and filled in the name of another girl as the bride-to-be. On the application he noted: "Had the wrong girl. Found the right one."

Occasionally there were days when it didn't seem worthwhile to get out of bed. Take Mrs. Theodore Dischner of Buchanan County. She earned $6 as an election judge, but her husband got caught speeding while taking her to the polling place, and paid a $12 fine.

And there was the experience of farmer Carl Prange. Out of water for his stock, he ordered a tank of it hauled out from Moberly. But the water never got there. Rain flooded a neighboring creek, preventing the truck from crossing.

For a time at Macon the air waves got mixed up with Missouri Highway Patrol messages coming through home radio and television sets. Thus it came about that just after a singer had finished "I Wonder What's Become of Sally," a trooper came in crisply with: "I don't know, but I'll check and call you back."

And speaking of the weaker sex, consider the girls basketball team at Gregory rural school near Kennett. The team entered both the Dunklin County grade school tournament and the junior high tournament the same week at Bragg City, 30 miles away. The girls played 7 games in 6 nights and won both tournaments.

And think of the chuckles this one brought. The Central High science club at Springfield decided upon determining the effects of diet. One mouse was fed a balanced diet, the other soda pop and candy bars. Then one of the mice died. It was the one that had been getting the balanced ration.

It is give and take with Mother Nature at times. Paul Howell advertised for logs to demonstrate his chain saw at the Laredo community fair. A few hours later a storm struck, blew down half the trees in the town and supplied Howell with enough logs to keep three chain saws busy.

"Sludge Digestion" was the sub-

Thieves Take Purse From 3-Year-Old Girl

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Police said two men, one armed, held up a drug-store yesterday, took $50 and on the way out grabbed a purse from a 3-year-old girl. It contained $15. Officers said the girl was holding the purse for her mother, Mrs. Joan Rasnic.

ject of an after dinner talk at Fulton. The listeners were water and sewer engineers.

L. T. Dameron of Macon received two letters the same day from the Federal Civil Service Commission. One was addressed to Lt. D. A. Meron. The other D. A. Meron. In both cases the addresses were correct.

And finally there were the names of places. At Half Way, Mo., safe crackers got only half way on their projects there. They cracked one safe, but failed to open another.

And Dry and Dusty, Mo. had a complete change. It became wet and muddy in a three inch rain.

Businessmen Try to Avoid Road Deaths

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—With the office party season coming to its annual climax today and tomorrow, many businessmen are joining law enforcement groups in the drive to hold down traffic deaths in the coming long weekend.

There are around 72 million Americans who drive cars. The majority will be on the streets and highways at some time during the period between Friday evening and Tuesday midnight. The Christmas holidays usually see the year's peak of traffic fatalities.

The trend last year and this has been to put a brake on the office Christmas parties which have often had traffic accidents as afterthoughts.

Segments of the liquor industry are appealing for temperance before driving and have a tie-in with the coffee industry to urge that drivers make a cup of coffee their "one for the road."

The auto industry this year as last stresses the safety features built into the new models.

The National Safety Council in Chicago estimates that the four-day holiday may see 660 traffic deaths in spite of all the warnings. The three-day Christmas holiday last year set a record of 609 deaths.

The Fraternal Order of Police in Philadelphia notes that auto fatalities so far this year are 8 per cent ahead of last year. It fears this Christmas season will also set a new record.

The Institute for Safer Living, a division of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co. of Boston, predicts that the toll between midnight Dec. 22 and midnight Dec. 31 may exceed 1,300. For the whole month of December more than 4,200 may meet death on the highway.

The National Licensed Beverage Assn., with a membership of 50,000 tavern owners and operators, and the National Retail Liquor Package Stores Assn., with 30,000 retail liquor stores as members, and Seagrams Distillers Co. are placing ads this year in 84 newspapers with an estimated 20 million readers, urging that coffee be the for-the-road drink.

Packets of instant coffee are being distributed to the distilling company's retail accounts so that bars can offer a free cup to departing patrons.

In some areas coffee companies are cooperating with local police to offer free cups to drivers showing signs of fatigue.

The Fraternal Order of Police urges avoidance of driving when over tired, as much as after drinking. It also suggests keeping a car window open, turning on the radio, or talking with other passengers as ways to help stay awake.

Governor of Kansas Takes Exception To Student Politics

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—The governor of Kansas takes exception to the University of Kansas chancellor's refusal to allow partisan expressions toward national and state politics by student editors.

They should be allowed to "get their feet wet and be as partisan as they please," Gov. Fred Hall said yesterday.

Chancellor Franklin P. Murphy told editors of the campus publication, the Daily Kansan, they could take sides in university politics, but forbade them to go any further.

Murphy said that he questions whether the school paper could do so "without it being construed as a partisan position on the part of the university itself."

The issue is expected to go before the State Board of Regents next month.

Senator Wants Another Look At US Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) today called for a "reappraisal" of American foreign policy in the light of developments behind the Iron Curtain and in the Middle East.

Sparkman, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he thinks it inevitable that congressional groups will ask "a lot of questions" about the Eisenhower administration's course in the international field.

"I don't look for any formal investigation of our international policies," he said in an interview. "But there should be a reappraisal of where we stand. I have no doubt there should be a reappraisal of where we stand. I have no doubt that the administration itself is doing some reappraising."

"It has made mistakes in the past. But I am not so much concerned with what already has happened as with where we are going from here. I think the administration's reliance on the United Nations in the Middle Eastern crisis was all to the good and I'd like to know more about what it intends to do in that field in the future."

Sen. Kefauver of Tennessee, the 1956 Democratic vice-presidential candidate, said in a separate interview a formal investigation might not be needed but that "a general foreign policy debate might help clear the air."

Washington PTA Has Christmas Program

The Washington PTA met Dec. 14 with a short business meeting. The devotional was read by Mrs. John Murrell.

Guest speaker for the evening was the Rev. Floyd T. Buntentbach.

The school gave a nice Christmas program directed by Miss Eugenia Arnold. A trumpet trio of seventh grade boys played a number before Rita Ratje, a fourth grader, sang a solo. The school chorus, composed of pupils in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades, sang several Christmas songs and carols.

Christmas Presents Are Three Years Late

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa. (AP)—Christmas presents arrived at the home of Mrs. Nicholas D'Alessandro this week only they were for the wrong Christmas.

The package contained photographs Mrs. D'Alessandro had taken of her daughters in the holiday season of 1953. She thought the pictures would make nice presents. Despite numerous calls to the Camden, N.J. photographer the prints never came—until this week.

The postmark, Dec. 17, 1953, showed it wasn't the photographer's fault at all. However, Mrs. D'Alessandro refused the package and its $9 COD charges.

Carols Sung At Lions Club Noon Meeting

Christmas carols were sung at the Sedalia Lions Club during its noonday meeting Wednesday by the mixed choral group of the Smith-Cotton High School under the direction of Mrs. Carl G. Schrader.

The visit to the club is an annual affair of Mrs. Schrader's group. The mixed chorus is composed of students picked by Mrs. Schrader from among senior girls and junior and senior boys in the Glee Club. The mixed chorus sang five numbers: "Carol of the Bells" with the solo part by Ken Williams and Harry Satterwhite; "Jingle Bells" with Bob Kreger, Don Eddie and Albert Reine; "Twas the Night Before Christmas" solo part Harry Satterwhite and "Silent Night" with Nan Ferguson singing the solo part.

The Boys' Quartette composed of Bob Welch, tenor; Tony Welch, second tenor; Bob Kreger, baritone; and Don Eddie, bass sang "Casey Jones" and the Girls' Sextette composed of Nan Ferguson, Barbara Mabry, Sandra Mahnken, Beverly Fawver, Pat Moore and Kay Caraway, sang a Medley of Carols.

President Bob Cain announced the club had voted to contribute to the state development of the Blind Vocational Training school program $50, also a contribution to the Hungarian relief, which was presented to the Pettis County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

It was announced plans are in the making for the annual Lions Invitational Basketball Tournament to be held the early part of February at the Liberty Park convention hall.

On Jan. 30, the fifth Wednesday of the month, the Lions will hold a party at the Bothwell Hotel that night for the members and their immediate families.

Guests at the meeting were David E. Basham, Jr., president of the Warrensburg Lions Club, guest of Russell Rhoads; John McCahon, Kansas City, the guest of James W. Atkinson.

Makes Appeal to USDA To Control Soybean Infestation in State

WASHINGTON (AP)—An appeal has been made to the Agriculture Department to do everything possible to prevent spread of soybean nematode infestation in Missouri. Stanley Fike, executive assistant to Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), and Rep. Hull (D-Mo.) yesterday conferred with Dr. William Popham, chief of the Agriculture Department's plant pest control branch.

Fike said a plant with soybean nematode, which attacks the roots of soybean and lespedeza plants, had been found on one southeastern Missouri farm. He said he and Hull were told the department is trying to localize any infestations and has three men in the three-state area of Tennessee, Arkansas and Missouri taking samples of plant roots to determine the amount of infestation.

Post Office Worries About Icy Sidewalks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Post Office, which has been worrying over how to keep dogs from biting mailmen, shifted attention today to the hazards letter carriers face on icy sidewalks.

Maurice H. Stans, acting postmaster general, said a large percentage of accidents suffered by postmen occur on icy walks, steps or stairways, and he added in a statement:

"Ice or snow-covered walks and steps . . . should be cleaned as promptly as possible or, if that is not feasible in time for the mailman's visit, abrasive materials—such as sand and ashes—should be spread over slippery walkways and steps to help prevent slips and falls."

Mrs. W. L. Lewis sang "Abide With Me" and "Have Thine Own Way, Lord" accompanied by Mrs. Mae Moser at the organ. Pallbearers were Mal O'Brien, Robert Overstreet, Aaron Smith, Myron Lindquist, William Hurlbut and Phillip Pfeiffer.

Burial was in the Crown Hill Cemetery.

Department Store Workers Give Money For Children's Gifts

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sister Maria Virgo went shopping one day this week for toys to give to children of the poor in Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Parish. All too quickly, her money was spent, but she lingered over some dolls which seemed just right for a lot of girls she knew.

Touched by the nun's disappointment, a saleswoman at an outlying department store offered enough money to pay for at least a few of the dolls. One of the managerial staff said he would help too. Most of the clerks on the floor also contributed. Soon Sister Maria Virgo had money enough to buy all the dolls and many more toys in the bargain.

Man Sets Up Tree For the Homeless

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The owner of a little delicatessen in a crowded part of downtown Philadelphia bought one of the biggest trees he could find, set it up on a patch of ground alongside the store, and decorated it beautifully. Then among the ornaments, the lights and silver, he placed a sign: "This tree is for all people who are homeless or who have no Christmas tree of their own."

Will Appeal Integration Order Ruling

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A federal judge's refusal to order immediate integration of Dallas public schools will be appealed.

W. J. Durham, attorney for the parents of 19 Negro children who filed the suit, announced the planned appeal yesterday after U.S. Dist. Judge William H. Atwell gave his decision.

Meanwhile, Dr. Edwin L. Rippey, president of the school board, said, "The board is naturally pleased with the decision of the court and will continue to work in good faith with the people of Dallas of all races to the end that the interest of their children will be best served."

Judge Atwell said he dismissed the case "in order that the school board may have ample time, as it appears to be doing, to work out this problem."

The 87-year-old jurist, a federal judge 34 years, recalled in giving his decision that the Supreme Court had left it up to lower courts to carry out its public school desegregation decision. He also said:

"I believe it will be seen that the court based its decision on no law but rather on what the court regarded as more authoritative, modern psychological knowledge than existed at the time that the now discarded doctrine of equal facilities was initiated. It will be recalled that in 1952, Mr. Justice (Felix) Frankfurter (of the U. S. Supreme Court) said it is not competent to take judicial notice of 'claims of social scientists.'"

He declined to elaborate on his decision, saying, "it would not be proper."

Judge Atwell gave his decision after a 2 1/2-hour rehearing of a suit started Sept. 5, 1955, in which the parents sought to gain admittance of their children to white schools. He ruled then that the Dallas schools need not integrate immediately, but did so without hearing testimony. The U. S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans sent the case back and ordered him to hear it on its merits.

Yesterday Judge Atwell said the policy of separate but equal schools in Texas was based on a state constitutional provision and had been in effect for a long time.

He noted that there was no complaint about the competency of teachers or of school facilities.

"Furthermore, the suggestion of the Supreme Court that the involved parties should studiously and carefully seek to integrate seems to have been attempted here; but so far has not succeeded; but it has not been abandoned by the school authorities," he said.

Symington Urges Benson to Reconsider Aid for Missouri

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson has been urged by Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) to reconsider a recent denial of emergency drought aid for a number of Missouri counties.

Symington said in a telegram to Benson that he strongly supported Gov. Phil Donnelly's request for "favorable reconsideration."

The need, said Symington, was made apparent in a recent inspection of the area by the Missouri Drought Committee and two Agriculture Department representatives.

The government rejected a request, following an earlier survey, to designate the Missouri counties as emergency disaster areas and make them eligible for federal aid programs.

Train Makes Special Stop for Christmas

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Reading Railroad's Wall Street Express is making a special stop near Dunellen, N.J., today so that some 50 commuters may give a Christmas present of $50 to eight employees of R. # Top Mystery Is Heightened By An Arrest

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — Interest in England's top mystery of the year—the deaths of the rich old ladies of Eastbourne — was fanned to a new pitch today after the arrest of a bachelor doctor on a charge of murder.

The doctor was 57-year-old John Bodkin Adams.

Dr. Adams was arrested yesterday at Trinity Trees, his home in this seaside resort, and accused of the murder of Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell, the widow of a food importer.

Mrs. Morrell died in November 1950 at the age of 18. Dr. Adams certified that the cause of death was a cerebral stroke. Her body was cremated and the ashes were scattered in the English Channel. She left an estate of almost $170,000.

One of the counts against the doctor charged that in order to have Mrs. Morrell cremated, he had falsely represented that so far as he knew he "had no pecuniary interest" in her death.

In addition to the murder charge Dr. Adams also was accused of violation of Britain's Dangerous Drug Act and concealment of two bottles of morphine from police.

No details concerning the charges or the circumstances of Mrs. Morrell's death were disclosed. Under British criminal procedure, such details are not made public until the government presents its case in court.

Police said the bodies of two other elderly women will be exhumed promptly for examination. They were Mrs. Julia Bradnum, an 85-year-old widow who died May 27, 1952, and Miss Clara Neil-Miller, who died in February 1954 at 86. No explanation was given for the exhumation order.

Scotland Yard disclosed last August that it had started a full-scale inquiry into the deaths of nearly 300 rich old ladies over the past 20 years in the Victorian town of 60,000 persons. Investigation came after rumors concerning the deaths and wills buzzed for several months through Eastbourne's hotel drawing rooms and tea shops.

Plainclothes men checked the wills left by the wealthy elderly women and were reported to have narrowed the inquiry down to a dozen cases said to show suspicious similarities.

Last month Dr. Adams was charged with 13 offenses, including eight forgery counts, one of larceny and four for alleged violations of the Cremation Act. He posted $5,600 bail and continued his practice, which dates back more than 30 years in Eastbourne.

Watch for Stolen Truck With Vaccines

NEW YORK (AP) — Police maintained an all-state alarm today for a stolen tractor-trailer loaded with damaged vaccines and antitoxins.

The truck and contents disappeared yesterday from a Manhattan loading platform.

The drugs were part of a shipment from Lederle Laboratories, Pearl River, N.Y., to its Chicago branch office. The truck carrying them caught fire in Ohio and 730 cartons out of 2,709 were damaged.

The Chicago office was returning the damaged cartons to Pearl River, where they were to be destroyed. The drugs included diphtheria antitoxins, tetanus toxoid and vaccines for mumps and typhoid.

The police alarm says the drugs were "contaminated and may be fatal to anyone making use of the same improperly."

A Lederle spokesman has denied this, saying the stolen drugs would not kill anyone if administered and that they had lost all their potency because of the heat of the fire.

Rich Make Contributions To Top Other Millionaires

By HAL BOYLE
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (P)—Money talks everywhere in America today. But here the big dollar emits a mighty holler.
You have to be stone deaf not to hear it, or color blind not to see it in this platinum playground of Florida's Gold Coast.
The "expense account rich" who prefer to live quietly in their own hometowns (so the neighbors won't get jealous) like to flaunt their wealth in public here.
But in a way it's hard to do. One man's Cadillac is about as long as another man's. A wife can wear only so many minks on her back without smothering.
"The only way the rich can impress each other here," said one longtime student of the foibles of the well-to-do, "is at charitable functions. One big shot gets up and says, 'I'll contribute $5,000,' and another big shot puts him in his place by saying, 'put me down for 10 grand.'"

But the quickest way for a stranger to attract attention here is either to stroll down the street nude—or with a portrait of Salmon P. Chase plastered on his forehead.
Who is Salmon P. Chase? Well, look in your wallet, and pull out the first $10,000 bill you come across. The guy portrayed on it is Salmon P. Chase, who was Abe Lincoln's secretary of the treasury.

Some 1,750,000 people visit Miami Beach every year, and mil-

Russian Born Agent Decides To Quit Job

LONDON (P)—Moscow newspapers claimed Thursday a Russian born U.S. intelligence agent has given himself up to Soviet authorities because he couldn't bear to spy against his homeland.

lions more wonder what it is really like.

In all India there is but one Taj Mahal. In Miami Beach there is a Taj Mahal (or a reasonable facsimile) on nearly every corner.

Each is a hotel with ocean front rooms renting for $40 a day up during the winter season and suites for $100 a day up. A famous couple during a two-week stay in a flossy penthouse ran up a bill of $6,000—more than a lot of people spend on laundry in an entire year.

In European cities tourists visit cathedrals, museums and palaces. Miami Beach is perhaps the only city in the world which has guided tours of hotel lobbies, each more splendid than the last.

Here is the story of Rem Petrovich Moroz, the reluctant spy, as related by Moscow radio:

Moroz, now 30, had lived in West Germany for a long time, making his living as a thief. In 1954 he took a job with the U.S. intelligence service to "spy on so-called displaced persons."

Later Moroz and his American boss, an agent named Muller, were sent to Washington for Moroz to continue his training at a special intelligence school.

"He was taught various methods of espionage work — photography, secret writing, marksmanship and topography — and given intensive training in walking long distances across rugged country."

All this time Moroz was firmly resolved to refuse to spy once he got back to Russia.

Last May 15 he and other U.S. agents were taken to Turkey on "four-engine transport aircraft No. 05533" and Moroz was dispatched into the Soviet Union with "forged documents in the name of Peter Grigoryevich Marchenko, a great number of forged certificates, a camera, a firearm, a considerable amount of Soviet money and a poison phial."

His mission was "to obtain at all costs, even by murder, various Soviet documents (passports, military warrants, official passes, etc.)."

Instead he turned himself into the authorities.

"In consideration of the fact that Moroz voluntarily presented himself and frankly related everything regarding his work with the American intelligence service," Moscow radio said, "the authorities concerned have decided not to bring him to trial."

Austrian ethnologist Father Martin Gusinde, who was once a lecturer at Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., discovered an unknown pigmy tribe in unexplored New Guinea. The average height of the New Guinea pygmies is 4 1/2 feet.

Boing-Boing Show on TV Is Different

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Now here's a pleasant Christmas surprise from CBS-TV: The Boing-Boing Show, which bowed in Sunday.

Devotees of the slapstick antics of Donald Duck may be a little baffled at first by this animated color cartoon program which concerns the adventures and avocations of Gerald Boing-McBoing, a bright lad who cannot say a word—but can make interesting noises.

Brilliant art techniques, excellent music and informed wit make this a distinctly different type of program. In his Sunday debut Gerald offered the story and music of a man who discovers a horse who plays cards and another entitled "A Miserable Pack of Wolves" about a little girl who slaps around wolves.

But the piece de resistance of the day was "The Invisible Mustache of Raoul Dufy," a delightful fable about the French artist which included faithful replicas and amusing caricatures of his work.

One of the best things about The Boing-Boing Show is that you rather feel you're the only living person who really enjoys it. On the other hand, you could feel you're the only living person who doesn't enjoy it. Either way, it's a sign of a good program.

Next Sunday, by the way, the show will include a version of the old English Christmas carol, "The Twelve Days of Christmas," in which a girl received a multitude of gifts beginning with a partridge in a pear tree.

Actor Gives Own List Of Best Dressed Men

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Adolphe Menjou, a fairly standard fixture on lists of best dressed men, today came up with his own list.

Menjou, confining his selections to California, released this list of sartorial standouts:

Charles Thomas of Los Angeles, secretary of the Navy; Gary Cooper, actor; Robert Gross, Lockheed aviation executive; Jacques Bergerac, actor; Sidney Franklin, motion picture director; Fred Astaire, dancer; Robert E. Petersen, publisher; Clark Gable, actor; Leigh Batson, broker, and William Keck, Superior Oil Co. executive.

"Each of these men," Menjou commented, "stands out as an oasis in an otherwise bleak landscape of fading elegance on the part of the average American male."

Actor Is Reported In Poor Condition

ATLANTA (AP)—Lathrop Mitchell, 49-year-old Broadway actor, was reported in "poor" condition today with what hospital attendants described as an infection of an undetermined nature.

Mitchell was taken from a plane here Saturday on his way from New York to Tallahassee, Fla., after the pilot had radioed a request to have a passenger removed.

Police booked the actor on a charge of intoxication, but later called a physician who sent Mitchell to Grady Hospital.

Two Dogs Are Enough

RADNOR, Pa. (AP)—A county court has ruled that two dogs are enough for any family. The judge upheld a Radnor township ordinance, and so Mr. and Mrs. George Kerr will keep Sparky (who resembles a terrier) and Nellie (a variation of a short-haired collie) but their two puppies (no description furnished) will have to go.

Car's 30-Foot Plunge Brings Tough Result

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When a woman driver lost control of her car on the Harbor Freeway, police reported, the vehicle crashed through a guard rail, plunged over a 30-foot ramp and landed upside down.

Mrs. Carrie Washington, 27, was angry as she climbed out.

"Damn," she said, "I broke a fingernail."

Police booked her on suspicion of drunk driving.

Famed Sing Team Joins Forces Again

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This week marks the reunion of one of the most famous teams of movie history—Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy.

The duo sang their way through nine MGM pictures, from "Naughty Marietta" in 1935 to "I Married an Angel" in 1941. They brought the flowering of the film operetta with their tremendously popular pictures, still shown all over the world.

Since their last film together, they have sought other fields. Miss MacDonald has specialized in stage operettas in recent years and Eddy tours with a successful night club act. Tomorrow night, Lux Video Theater will re-team them on NBC in their famed "Will You Remember?" duet from "Maytime."

"We've done some radio together since 'I Married an Angel,'" Eddy explained between rehearsals, "but we've combined on TV. No particular reason, except that usually a show can afford one of us but not both."

He went on to say that he and Jeanette have always been on the best of terms and have seen each other socially.

"I'm always being asked about the MacDonald-Eddy feud," he said. "There never was a feud. Sure, we had differences on the set. Almost every day, in fact. But that's normal."

"I hear all kinds of stories. Like how Jeanette and I tried to out-sing each other. Ridiculous! We always recorded with separate microphones. It was up to the mixer which one of us sounded louder."

"Jeanette and I have entertained each other in our houses. We often would get around the piano and have some fun. It was out of such clowning that I developed the idea for my night club act."

At 55, Eddy is still smooth-faced and enthusiastic about his career. "I like the night club business," he said. "Oh, occasionally you'll find a bad dressing room, a bad orchestra or bad audience, but most of the time it's lots of fun."

Shanghai Port Is Strangled In Its Trade

SHANGHAI (AP)—The great port of Shanghai once loaded 30 ships a day with silk, Chinese tea, narcotics—anything that would bring a price.

Now it handles perhaps 50 ships a month.

Restrictive action by Chinese Nationalists has strangled Shanghai's waterfront—but it has developed Tientsin and northern cities into major seaports. Chiang Kai-shek's strength does not extend that far.

Empty docks and crumbling jetties line Shanghai's Whangpoo riverbank. A few blockade runners with half-empty holds are moored next to vacant warehouses. But most of the trade is coastal, handled by big seafaring junks with Picasso doves painted on their sides.

German, Scandinavian, Dutch, British and Japanese ships still carry on a picaresque China trade, but none carry full cargo. The trip is a dangerous one. The British freighters are emblazoned with seven-foot-high Union Jacks on their sides for identification in the Formosa Strait.

The Chinese Foreign Trade Department maintains that exports have picked up 265 per cent since 1950, but the empty docks are enough evidence to show the figure is a doctored one.

"There were 400 ships in Shanghai in the first eight months of this year," a shipping man said. "And not one of them carried a full load in or out."

Shanghai still has traces of its international past. In streets off Edward VII Avenue, now named Nanking Road, are faintly painted shop signs reading "Cleaners,"

Jude Atwell's Decision May Have Set Some Ears Burning

DALLAS (AP)—They don't make judges like William Hawley Atwell any more.

And not many judges make legal decisions like Judge Atwell any more either. Not on school segregation questions, they don't, since the Supreme Court spoke.

The federal judge yesterday handed down a decision that probably set ears burning on the Supreme Court bench.

He said that in making the famous public school segregation ruling the justices didn't decide the case according to law. They decided it, he said, on the basis of what he called "modern psychological knowledge."

His thinking followed that of some Southern leaders who have contended all along that the Supreme Court, in declaring public school segregation unconstitutional based its decisions not on the law but on sociology.

"Dress Shops," "Coiffure," now covered by Chinese characters. Some of the apartment buildings, better built and better designed than any in China, have their English or French names over the doors.

In effect, he ruled that Dallas need not integrate its schools, at least not immediately. He said he did so "in order that the school board may have ample time, as it appears to be doing, to work out this problem."

Said the judge: "If there is such a thing as civil rights, there are civil wrongs. It would be unthinkable and unbearably wrong to make white students get out of Dallas schools so as to let in colored students."

Attorneys have long praised Judge Atwell for his strict insistence on the law.

"That's the law," he tells bickering attorneys. "There's nothing I can do but rule by it, as I took an oath to do."

Judge Atwell, 37, a lifelong Republican, has been retired for years, but still sits in nonjury and other cases.

In 1954 he said, "A federal judge never really retires. He may continue to serve on the bench as long as his strength holds out."

He likes tobacco, looks with favor on poker playing, is a warm person off the bench, but almost all newspapermen term him "awesome" when he's hearing a case.

He has a Lincoln-like love of the turn of a word and the poetry of a phrase.

When he became 70 June 9, 1938, and eligible for retirement at full pay, he said, "I do not believe in getting something for nothing. I am happy in my work and that's all there is to it."

Until early December 1942, he had not missed a day on the bench because of illness. Then he went to Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., for a stomach operation.

Four weeks later he stepped to the bench and declared:

"I have had some specific in-

Embezzlement Is Charged

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Embezzlement of nearly $50,000 over six years from a loan company here was charged today to its woman cashier, Mrs. Cora Zidan, a mild-mannered matron of 50.

Mrs. Zidan, who authorities said signed a statement that she took the money, remarked afterward: "I don't know why I did it. I didn't want to do it, but I got started and couldn't quit."

She was employed by the Denver Discount Co. and Allied Credit Corp., a joint firm. She had worked for the company 10 years. Her salary was $240 a month.

After arraignment, she was released under $2,500 bond.

Ray Humphreys, an investigator for the district attorney's office, disclosed the following details:

Mrs. Zidan admitted taking $48,000 to $50,000 at the rate of $10,000 a year until last month, when a fellow employe questioned her records.

To inquiries concerning what she did with the money the cashier replied: "Mismanagement, I guess. I don't know where it went myself." She said she owes a $12,000 mortgage on her home, others on two cars.

"Quite a bit of the money went toward caring for my husband, but not all of it," she said. "He's been in the hospital or sanitarium 11 times in the past three years."

Her husband John, 40, operates a west Denver gas station.

Mrs. Zidan told investigators she took money from the cash drawer and replaced it with checks received in the mail as home mortgage payments. She said familiarity with the operations of auditors enabled her to adjust her accounts before the books were checked.

Dr. Collins Is Speaker At Optimist

Dr. Earle Collins, president of the Missouri Valley College, Marshall Club Tuesday noon at Bothwell Hotel.

This was the annual Optimist Christmas party and special guests were wives of the Optimist members, so Dr. Collins told of a statement he made back in March, 1939, after he returned from a trip around the world and had spent a part of the time in India. The world, Dr. Collins said at that time, was mostly influenced by two women, one was Madame Chiang Kai-shek of China, and the second, a woman missionary of Methodist faith in India. With the missionary lived a woman of India who said she had taken the ideals of her life that she had gotten from the American missionary lady and absorbed them into the life of her brother. The Indian woman, Dr. Collins said, was the sister of Nehru. Today, said Dr. Collins, it is Nehru that is trying to bridge democracy and communism.

The second thing Dr. Collins went on to say was that the Christ child, whose birthday we are celebrating at this season of the year was born near where all the trouble has been today, at the Suez Canal. It was along this way that Mary and Joseph fled with their son into Egypt and crossed where the Suez canal is today.

Dr. Collins then read a letter from Dr. Ewing Bailey, who for more than 30 years had been an outstanding educator in Egypt. Even back in 1925 when Dr. Collins first went to Egypt preparations were made that Americans would be taken care of at this time when the need came. Dr. Bailey, whose letter was written a month ago and was delivered to Dr. Collins only Monday told of the outbreak in Egypt over the Suez Canal, of how the Americans were taken care of and a bit of what took place there. Dr. Bailey said in the letter the behavior of the Egyptians was wonderful during this crisis. The guerrilla fighting in the mountains, Dr. Bailey explained, is by the excited Moslem Brotherhood, which is a fanatical religious group, followers of Farouk. They tried to gain control of the whole area and are against President Nasser. Dr. Bailey feels that things will work out for the good of all in Egypt.

Dr. Collins pointed out that the people of that country are people who barter. You buy a loaf of bread, they tell you it is 20 cents, so you offer ten cents, he calls you a cheater, you call him a thief and when you finally get through you agree on 15 cents. If he lets you have it for ten cents you'd think there was sand in it and if you took it right off for 20 cents he would think the money counterfeit. That is the way they do, Dr. Collins said, so that is the way this will be settled, too, he believes. They have put their price high, because they expect to come down, and the agreement will eventually be, he thinks, to the satisfaction of all.

They have found much tooth paste and many handkerchiefs in that area and that is a tip off, Dr. Collins said. The Egyptians use neither toothpaste or handkerchieves. They use sugar cane for their teeth, the best dental floss they could have, he said, and they use the end of their long flowing robes when they need a handkerchief. That was put there by the Communists for them-selves.

But, the Suez Canal, Dr. Collins believes, is the key to the world situation, and because of the great belief of all religions in that area in a living God, Communism, without a belief in God, cannot win them over.

Dr. Collins was introduced by Charles Hanna.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. C. J. Blaich, president, and invocation was by the Rev. D. Warren Neal, who was a guest.

Singing was led by Charles Hanna with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

A very delightful part of the Christmas party was the sextette of senior girls from Smith-Cotton High School who wandered around the room singing Christmas carols.

The girls in the sextette were Nan Ferguson, Barbara Mabry, Sandra Mahken, Beverly Fawver, Pat Moore and Kay Caraway. This Christmas music was presented under the direction of Mrs. Carl Schrader.

Guests introduced were: Myrene Artas, S-Sgt. Marvin Wimer and Cpl. Donnie Wimer.

Capt. John Herbst, public relations officer from the Whiteman Air Force Base, was presented and introduced the outstanding airmen for the month of November in their squadrons. These men, Capt. Herbst said, do a superior job, that is why they receive this honor. The men introduced by Capt. Herbst were: A-3c Thomas D. Meredith, 487th Bomb Sq.; S-Sgt. Kenneth D. Hice, 486th Bomb Sq.; A-2c Wayne M. O'Connor, 340 Fld. Maint. Sq.; A-2c Freddie Johnson, Jr., 340th Installation Sq. and A-2c Robert W. Taylor, 340th Air Police Sq.

The Optimist Club presented a Christmas corsage to each woman present.

Firms Regret Using Fancy Glass Bottles

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—All that fancied up glassware in the ads and in the shop windows can be traced straight to costly competition in one of the most competitive of all businesses. And some companies wish they'd never started it.

It stems from this: Americans million bottles of liquor — most of it around this time of year. Since that's no small market, distillers go after those sales vigorously to the delight of the glass, carton and wrapping paper industries.

This year the splurge on decanters and fancy trappings is at a new height. They're fancier, more imaginative, costlier. And for the first time imported whisky is getting in the act.

Some in the industry go in for it reluctantly, holding that it costs them too much for the return they get. But they're afraid to stop the practice unless their rivals do too.

So they hire noted industrial designers to turn out decanters looking like anything from old fashioned syrup containers to a ship's lantern—bottles that play tunes, bottle tops that are cigarette lighters or double for candlesticks — cases that can be used as end tables, their drawers filled with bottles.

Others concentrate on cartons with holiday motifs, some with a needlepoint effect on monk's cloth background.

The trouble is that, expensive as all this is, most distillers are convinced that the fancy decanter will lure the gift shopper away from the plain bottle on the shelf. It may make little difference to the man buying for himself, but when he is selecting a present he feels the fancy glassware makes it look more valuable.

If holiday sales come up to expectations, trade sources are estimating sales this year as high as 215 million gallons — the first gain in six years.

Whisky prices have gone up by 25 to 35 cents a fifth of a gallon in some places. In others, the rise comes after the first of the year — and the industry thinks this too should help sales right now.

Invalid Butcher Home After Eight Hour Operation

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An invalid butcher will go home to his wife and four children on Christmas Eve because, surgeons say, he successfully withstood an eight-hour operation to correct a heart ailment.

Cecil Badger, 51, sat up in his hospital bed yesterday while doctors told newsmen that the lengthy surgery was made possible by an elaborate heart-lung machine.

This, said the surgeons, enabled them to tie off and bypass Badger's heart for a critical 18 minutes while they entered the dry, bloodless organ and corrected the defect.

Badger suffered rheumatic fever in 1918, 1920 and again in 1949. The result was a scarred, narrowed main artery in his heart. Five months ago the organ's reserve was so depleted and Badger's pain was so great that he could walk only a few steps, his physician said. In August he had to give up his job and stay at home. His physician said he might live 18 months.

The surgery to expand the narrowed artery and aortic valve was performed Saturday, doctors disclosed. Just before the operation Badger was given an anticoagulant, heparin, to minimize the possibility of clotting in the blood stream. This circumstance, the danger of clotting, they said, was chiefly responsible for the lengthy period Badger spent in the operating room.

“... Unto Us a Child Is Born.” Mary -- “Thou Art Highly Favored”

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of eight studies of the birth and times of Christ. It portrays Mary, blessed among women, on the night of the Nativity.

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Newsfeatures

A beetle crept upward on the stone wall. In the pale lantern light, the young woman watched it. She lay on a straw pallet. The beetle moved slowly. It seemed to take a long time to move a finger's breadth.

Mary smiled dreamily. Poor little beetle. You have to climb so far and so hard. But it will not be long now. You will make it. All is well, blessedly well.

Never had she known a stable was so wondrously comforting.

Just outside the entrance, Joseph stood outlined against the night, a dark, steadfast sentry. From beyond came the faint singing of crickets. Mary breathed evenly. A blissful warmth pervaded her whole being.

Keep going, little beetle. You can do it. You clasp the hewn stone so valiantly, searching ahead with your tiny legs. Do not be fearful. Our shelter here is good and pleasant.

Mary let her eyes rove about the stall. The lantern flame, sheathed in hareskin, cast a mellow glow. She would always cherish this quiet, secure place, its hush, its peace.

None of this night would ever leave her.

She had been relieved beyond words when Joseph found this refuge, at last, after his unavailing entreaties at the inn. Good Joseph. He had not known how spent the journey left her. The stable had been as welcome as a palace.

And all the marveling days to come. . . . Ever since the divine message had come that she would bear a Son, not by man, but of God, her soul had magnified the Lord. He chose her—a lowly village girl—as his handmaiden!

“Thou art highly favored. . . .” How mystifying those words had been. That it would be she, poor, of no rank, of humble habit.

Hold tight, little one. Indomitable beetle, straining upward, hugging the stone.

Every passing moment, every thing around, seemed highly precious. Lying there, wrapped in a woolen shawl, with the soft fragrance of straw, Mary could feel at moments the very core of her life hurtling toward some poignant fulfillment, then dissolving into pure serenity.

Nothing, nothing at all, remained of the agitation in which she had hastened to her cousin's house, after first learning she would bear a holy Son. Elizabeth had understood at once. “Blessed art thou among women. . . .”

In time, Joseph also understood. Though older, his joy had become as boundless as hers as the time neared. She had spent the days plainly—weaving, grinding grain, drying fruit — but with a bright treasure in her heart.

Now, in this soothing haven, with light swaying on the rafters, and her good husband at call, she drifted at intervals in vivid heights and delicious reverie.

Waves of happiness flowed over her like music, ebbing and swelling. She found herself gazing mistily at the beetle again. It had traversed two more stones and still struggled heroically. Do not give up little beetle. There is not a go.

The stable, the night, the world itself seemed to be expanding around her, and the lantern light was more alive. She felt as if she were floating, rising, until she almost touched the very heavens. Almost. . . .

The rapture came back over her again, like warm surf.

Then suddenly her eyes were open and she was staring directly across the room at a cow, placidly chewing, her eyes big and kind. Mary gazed at her fondly. The cow was so friendly, such a close companion.

Sweet night! Good stable! Dear creatures of God!

Excitement was gathering in her, gathering slowly, increasing, gathering steadily and more swiftly.

MORE . . . MORE . . . MORE . . .

She could not hear the crickets any more, but a stronger, greater rhapsody was ringing out. Her eyes were closed. Her lips moved rapidly in prayer. Her heart filled until it seemed almost bursting.

“And this is the sign unto: Ye shall find a Babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, and lying in a manger. And suddenly, there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, peace, good will to men.”

(Tomorrow: A Boy Growing Up.)

“Blessed Mary,” Joseph kept saying. “Praise God!” He was saying first one and then the other.

She took some swaddling cloth they had brought, and wrapped the Baby, and laid him in a manger.

Mary smiled at Him, shaking her head, but the tears kept coming, and she could not help it.

It must have been a long time before she looked up and saw that the beetle had made it to the high ledge.

“And there were shepherds in the same country abiding in the field, and keeping watch over their flocks. And an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.”

“And the angel said unto them, be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all the people: for there is born to you this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord.”

Part V

She felt lifted up, up, up in an infinite design, a part of the miracle of all creation, sharing a secret with God. And the stars raced by.

Then, all was still. The night was silent.

“Joseph!”

A new-born Baby Boy puckered up his face and let out His first cry.

Joseph already was beside her, and she was looking up at him, and crying a little bit herself, but smiling, too, and she saw he also was crying, and it seemed so very foolish, because she could not be happier, and she doubted if he could be, either, but she looked at the Baby, and burst out crying all over again.

“Blessed Mary,” Joseph kept saying. “Praise God!” He was saying first one and then the other.

She took some swaddling cloth they had brought, and wrapped the Baby, and laid him in a manger.

Expect High Employment To Continue

By NORMAN WALKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The year 1956 can be chalked up as one of the best yet for labor with the prospect that 1957 will be equally as good or better.

The high employment levels, expanding earnings and growing security safeguards for workers prevailing in 1956 are expected to continue into 1957.

Prices have been rising too, setting new living cost peaks during the second half of 1956. They have in part canceled wage increases, but workers are still a bit ahead of the game for the year.

Here is how Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell sums up the lot of the American worker:

“We are ending the year with employment and purchasing power at all-time highs. They have made healthy gains. The employment increases have been for the production of consumer goods and services and for the expansion of our industrial capacity, in both cases to meet the demands of a rising population and a rising level of living.

“I look forward to a continuation of these gains next year. Employment should rise further, notably in the services and trade, which are becoming increasingly important employers of American labor. Many workers will also receive wage increases—some five million currently have agreements which provide for 5 to 1 cents an hour more in 1957.”

Mitchell also says:

“The recent price increases, following an extraordinarily long period of relative stability, will of course bear careful watching. However, it is likely that the increasing capacity of our industry will remove some of the supply difficulties which helped push prices up recently.

“In labor-management relations 1957 ought to be a comparatively peaceful year since a remarkably large number of major contracts were negotiated in 1956 for periods of two or three years.

“In addition, I am convinced that each year both labor and industry are showing more maturity in their collective bargaining and a greater awareness of their common responsibilities and interest.”

Indians Face Cruel Choice, Survey Shows

NEW YORK (AP)—Many American Indians, says a leading Indian interest organization, are faced with this choice: leave their homes on the reservation to move into large industrial cities — or starve.

The Association on American Indian Affairs, Inc., in a report on its survey of the government's controversial relocation program, says that the program is "humanely operated" and needed by the destitute Indians living a barren existence on undeveloped reservations.

Under relocation, reservation Indians are resettled at government expense in industrial centers — Los Angeles, San Francisco, Denver, Chicago, St. Louis and San Jose — where year-round employment is available.

The association, however, urges the government's Bureau of Indian Affairs to get behind a Point Four program to "elevate American Indian communities to the level of health and well-being prevailing elsewhere in the United States."

The survey team, headed by Dr. Mary H. S. Hayes, spent months in on-the-spot research and study. The report was written by La Verne Madigan, the association's executive director.

More than a million dollars was spent in the last fiscal year in relocating about 4,275 persons. The report said, however, that "as long as the relocation program remains the only program being carried out visibly and vigorously for the Indians, as long as the Indians have no economic choice between relocation and something else, that long will the program have to carry the blame for all the bureau's and the country's omissions."

The survey team found bitter opposition between local organizations — such as clubs, churches and Indian centers — and the relocation offices in the big cities. These community groups were right, says the association, in questioning the motives of the program, but "in their almost exclusive concern with federal Indian policy they failed to strengthen the Indian newcomers' belief in their ability to succeed."

In urging the Bureau of Indian Affairs to develop tribal communities economically, the association says that as long as Indians have no decent alternative to emigration from their homes, the bureau's relocation program will be

Concordia Post Holds Christmas Party

About 100 people attended the Legion Christmas party sponsored by the Lohman-Meyer Post and Auxiliary in Concordia.

Raymond Kuecker, commander, announced that the post would enter John Groh, a student at St. Paul's College, in the Lafayette County oratorical contest.

A short Christmas program was held with several numbers given by the St. Paul's College students and several numbers by the grade school.

A gift exchange and a visit by Santa Claus completed the party.

Hold Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party for the children of the members of the Warsaw Mothers Club was held Friday evening, Dec. 14, at the Warsaw VFW hall. Several games were played by both children and adults after which Santa Claus came and visited with the children and gave each of them a gift. Refreshments were served. Those serving on the committee in charge were Mrs. Allen Rich, Mrs. Willard Noland, Mrs. Bill Cooper, and Mrs. Leland Whitaker.

WSCS Has Yule Party

The WSCS of the Warsaw Methodist Church held a Christmas program at the church Dec. 12. Those serving on the committee were Mrs. Leonard Lane, Mrs. Ralph Wiest, Mrs. Judy Franks, Mrs. Faye Holloway, and Mrs. Leland Whitaker.

The Junior Choir of the church with Mrs. Lloyd Parsons as accompanist and Mrs. Wiest as narrator presented a Christmas pageant. After the program refreshments were served in the basement from a beautifully decorated table.

Painter Benton Gets Occupational License

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The city is mailing an occupational license to Thomas Hart Benton, noted artist, no questions asked.

Benton recently was sent a bill for the $25 occupational tax after city officials read that he received a $30,000 commission for some paintings.

He protested vehemently that artists should not be licensed, but finally paid the tax.

However, he refused to fill out an application for the license, on grounds that he could not jeopardize his residence by listing it as a place of business.

VFW Post 3189 Has Christmas Dinner

The Sedalia Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 3189 and Auxiliary had their Christmas dinner at the home of Mrs. Penelope Bell, 218 West Pettis. Twenty members were present.

Two visitors from Auxiliary 2508 were guests at the dinner.

A turkey dinner with all the Christmas trimmings was served. Following the dinner an exchange of gifts was held among the members.

Mothers' Club Meets

The Warsaw Mothers Club met at the home of Mrs. Ronald Gatliff Tuesday evening, Dec. 11. Roll call was answered by "Christmas Suggestions."

After the business meeting, Mrs. Bill Neff presented the program, "Help Your Child to Face His Feelings."

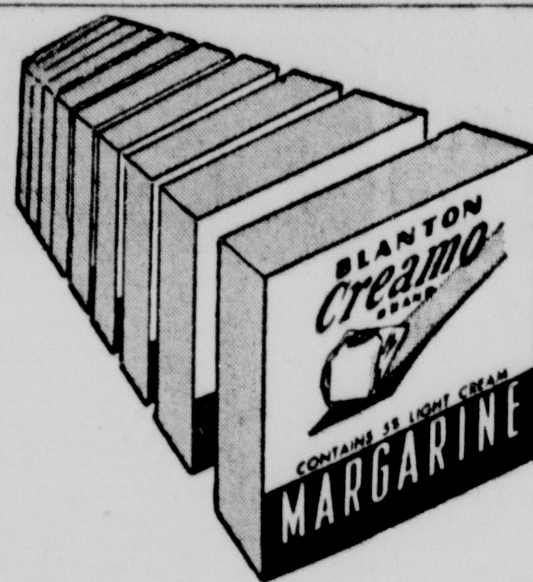

Santa Claus paid the group a short visit and gifts from secret pals were distributed. Mrs. Richard Kingma won the hostess gift. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Here's How to Carve a Turkey

1—EXECUTIVE CHEF Clement Grangier begins turkey carving by severing the leg from the bird.

2—Meat from drumstick is then removed.

3—Deep horizontal cut is made at wing top.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
What's the most practical way to carve a turkey? Our vote goes to the method used by Clement Grangier, Executive Chef of New York's Ambassador hotel.

Grangier, who has been in this country only eight years, trained in world-famed kitchens in Paris. At this year's International Hotel Exposition in New York, he won first prize in three exhibits devoted to originality in the culinary art, cooked sugar work and classical cookery.

We watched this Master Chef while he graciously gave us a lesson in turkey carving. In our opinion, his method can not be beat for ease and speed in wielding the knife, getting the most out of the bird and having the turkey slices make a mouth-watering appearance. If your roast turkey is anywhere from 10 to 24 pounds, we urge you to follow these directions. For baby turkeys, Grangier suggests the same technique but omits the horizontal breast cut in operation 3. The Chef used paper frills on the ends of the drumsticks but you may wish to wrap foil around them. Have your carving knife really sharp!

CARVING A ROAST TURKEY
1. With your left hand hold the drumstick end nearest it and press the second joint away from the body; while you do so, with the carving knife in your right hand, sever the second joint from the bird.

2. Place severed turkey part on an extra plate. Holding end of drumstick bone with left hand, cut it away from second joint. Carve second joint by slicing it into as many good-sized pieces as possible. Holding drumstick with left hand, slice meat from it.

3. Make a deep horizontal cut in turkey breast just above wing, cutting right through until knife blade meets bird's body bone.

4. Anchor fork in top of turkey breast with left hand. Slice white meat downward with a long even stroke, slanting later slices wider

4—Steady even strokes yield breast meat.

Open Whiteman AFB's New $76,000 Library

The Whiteman Air Force Base, new $76,000 library officially opened for business Monday, Dec. 10, with coffee and doughnuts served to personnel visiting the new book center for the first time.

The modern building contains 3500 square feet of floor space and has the very latest facilities and equipment offering personnel an attractive and comfortable place in which to browse for books or to relax with periodicals or newspapers during leisure hours.

The new air conditioned library stocks over 2,000 books and subscribes to 75 magazines and newspapers.

Wray Fisher Arrives At Hawaii Air Base

Airman Second Class Wray H. Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fisher, Sedalia, arrived recently at Hickman Air Force Base, Hawaii, for service with the 57th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron.

Airman Fisher attended Liberal High School before entering the service in February, 1956. Prior to this overseas assignment, Airman Fisher was stationed at Sheppard AFB.

Wins Certificate

Jerry Cook of Sedalia received a speed certificate Dec. 14 at Platt College of Commerce, St. Joseph, for typing correctly for ten minutes at a speed of 55 words per minute.

The U.S. Air Force is considering use of mothballs on military airport runways near seacoasts as protection against seagulls. Collisions with seagulls have caused damage to planes and pilots several times. Great Britain's RAF has found mothballs keeps the gulls away.

than first ones. Continue until entire side of breast is carved.

5. Repeat same procedure on other side of turkey so other leg (second joint and drumstick) and breast (white meat) are carved. Remove servings of stuffing. For more helpings, sever wings from body and slice off any remaining meat.

CHRISTMAS MENU NOTES

When we asked Chef Grangier about the dishes he found most welcome with roast turkey, he said his Christmas hotel menu offered the good old American accompaniments of cranberry sauce, candied yams, creamed onions and brussels sprouts with chestnuts. For the next course, he serves Chiffonade Salad—mixed greens, cucumber and cooked beets (shoe-string style) with Sauce Vinaigrette or Roquefort Dressing. For dessert he features traditional pies and Plum Pudding along with a frozen version of the French Buche de Noel with Sabayon Sauce.

To all of you, "Bon appetit!"

Versailles WSCS Holds Annual Yule Dinner

The four circles of the WSCS of the Versailles Methodist Church held their annual Christmas dinner and program at the church.

The tables were decorated in the Christmas theme. Mrs. H. A. Meyer gave the invocation. The program was opened with a prelude by Mrs. Lloyd Collins on the organ. Mrs. W. E. Nelson gave a devotional and presided over the meeting.

Plans were made to prepare a basket for distribution at Christmas time.

A Christmas candlelighting litany was presented by Circle 4, led by Mrs. Gerald Wilcox. Others taking part were, Mrs. John Caine, Mrs. Bill Chapman, Mrs. Kern Etter, Mrs. J. L. Alton and Mrs. Darrel Goodman.

Sewing Circle Elects Officers at Party

The Sewing Circle of the Bethel Church, Concordia, held its Christmas party and election of officers Wednesday afternoon. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Herman Pregel, president; Mrs. Al Damman, vice-president; Mrs. Arba Weipman, treasurer, and Mrs. A. J. Kronicke, secretary.

It was also decided to send cookies to the pastors' home in Blue Springs Christmas.

During the social hour, a covered dish lunch was served and an exchange of gifts was held.

Church Circle Meets, Has Worship Program

The Irene Branum Circle met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Roscoe Huffman, which was decorated in the Christmas theme.

Mrs. Glenn Galt presented the program, "Hallowed Be Thy Name." Mrs. Raymond Hansen gave a second meditation. Mrs. Durward Goode gave a reading, followed by prayer by Mrs. Lula Bryan. After the group sang a hymn, Mrs. Hansen gave a third meditation. Mrs. Edith Gochenour read an article on hospitals and children's homes and Mrs. R. A. Baker read testimonies of overseas Christians. The group sang a carol as each member placed an offering on the open Bible. The program concluded with all repeating the "Lord's Prayer."

The chairman, Mrs. Bryan, presided over the business session. A gift exchange was enjoyed. A handkerchief shower was given Mrs. Huffman in honor of her birthday. The hostess served refreshments to nine members and one visitor.

Warsaw VFW Meets

The Warsaw VFW held a Christmas party Monday night, Dec. 10, in the VFW hall. With the arrival of Santa Claus, the gifts were distributed, after which refreshments were served. Mrs. John Lloyd Durham and Mrs. Darace Eaton were in charge of the arrangements.

Members of Morgan County Post 104 of the American Legion and Auxiliary Unit 104 and their families held a basket dinner at the Versailles Civic Club Hall. After the dinner each unit met separately for a short business meeting. The American Legion made plans for a new American Legion building. The Auxiliary planned to present a Christmas basket to a local family.

The program was held after the business sessions directed by Mrs. Fleetwood Hargett, Mrs. Roy Bolton and Mrs. Lloyd Collins.

Piano selections were given by Richard and Cynthia Bolton and David Archer. Cynthia, Brenda, Jane and Jackie Sue Bolton sang, accompanied by Mrs. Bolton. Mrs. Hargett accompanied her son, Sanday, who sang a selection before Connie White sang, accompanied by Deon Barnes.

Mrs. K. A. Goodman gave a Christmas reading. Mrs. Bartram gave the Christmas story from St.

The Benton County Chapter of the World War I Veterans will hold a meeting at the courthouse in Warsaw at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 29. At this meeting District Commander White of Kansas City will be the principal speaker. The program was closed with the group singing carols led by John Nelson.

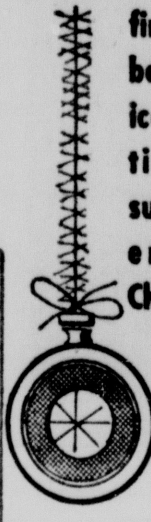

The State Commander of the organization is expected to be a visitor. The meeting will be presided over by Benton County Commander Peters who will also introduce the speakers.

All World War I veterans from the area are invited to attend the meeting. Refreshments are to be served following the meeting.

Teen-Town Needs Chaperones

The success of any community's Teen-Town project probably rests with the parents as much as with participating children.

Sedalia's Teen-Town has had its ups and downs finding a place for activities, acquiring equipment and financing. These obstacles during the passing years have not been insurmountable.

But one obstacle, wholly unexpected, is the lack of interest of parents. Many do not want to share in the administrative work, serve as board members, or even as chaperones once or twice a year.

Teen-Town board members have been at sixes and sevens trying to program a chaperone schedule ever since the city administration changed its mind about taking over the Teen-Town quarters in City Hall. The place has been made available for youngsters again.

One member called 53 parents asking them to serve as chaperones just one of the evenings during the year. And all of them refused. Why? Because they were too busy! That might be true during holiday time but what about next month or next spring. How in the world can parents project their busy times so far ahead?

Of course there are some parents who are downright against Teen-Town because of rumors they have heard about poor behavior of a few youngsters outside the building. Maybe there would be better behavior if more parents took a decided interest in youth activities outside as well as inside the building.

Teen-Town to survive must have supervision. What better than that of the parents themselves? There is little enough diversified entertainment being afforded teen-agers in Sedalia.

A Christmas party for Teen-Towners was accepted as a personal responsibility of the adult board members. This required a lot of preparation for decorations, band, etc. But the board members think it is worthwhile.

On the other hand the board alone cannot be expected to carry the burden of supervision throughout the coming year.

A good New Year's resolution would be for parents of teen-agers to volunteer their services without being called.

Stewardship of Teen Town and the department of boys and girls in and out of this place of wholesome entertainment is a challenge to parents.

Either give Teen-Town a lift, or close it down. But that is the essence of defeatism. We don't believe Sedalia parents as a whole are ready to accept responsibility for occurrence of such a denouement.

Destruction Rampant

Not only have ships been sunk in the Suez Canal, but both cargo and ships have been left to rot and disintegrate. Wisdom and economy and the true sense of values are fleeing when war-minded peoples are bent on destruction.

Not even statues that have stood the test of time are left to commemorate martyrs and heroes. The latest sculptural adornment which must go is that of Ferdinand de Lesseps, founder of the company that built the Suez Canal which stands at the Port Said entrance.

The de Lesseps statue will be replaced by a statue of liberty dedicated to the Egyptian "martyrs" of the British-French landings.

It is hoped that before such a replacement can take place, the Suez crisis can be solved and the original founder can continue to grace the Port Said entrance.

Dulles' Idea on Satellites Hardly News

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles' idea of liberation for the Russian satellites — after talking for four years about their liberation—comes down to a do-it-yourself policy.

This is cold comfort, but hardly news, for the Iron Curtain countries which want to shake loose from Russia and may have hoped for military help from the United States once they started a revolt.

If this is what they thought, they got their disillusionment when the Hungarians did revolt and got nothing but moral support from the United States. In his news conference this week Dulles seemed even to dilute the moral support.

He said he would rather see the satellites get their independence through peaceful "evolutionary" means.

Asked if this country felt that what happened between Russia and the satellites was strictly a Russian affair, Dulles didn't answer directly.

He said the Russians have told the United States the satellites are their business alone. He added that if Russia wanted this country's opinion — although it hasn't so far — the United States would be glad to give them.

This isn't how Dulles talked in the 1952 presidential campaign when he sounded so fiery about liberating the satellites that President Eisenhower, then the Republican candidate, stepped in with an explanation that Dulles didn't mean liberation by force.

Ever since Eisenhower won the election that year, Dulles has harped on the liberation theme. Recently, though, he has been softening his talk with suggestions about the "evolutionary" process.

This means independence achieved peacefully instead of by revolt. And that in turn means

Dulles is telling the satellites they'll have to work out their own problems.

There's apparently a fairly valid reason for the very cautious note Dulles has been sounding since the Poles defied the Russians and got some independence and the Hungarians defied them with open, internal warfare.

This is it:

This government and its European allies are worried that the Russian rulers, fearing their empire is disintegrating, might in desperate panic decide on sudden war.

Dulles was not only assuring them that this country didn't want war but, as he said, didn't even want a resumption of the cold war and didn't want the satellites, even if they were free, as American military allies.

Immigration Laws Need Flexibility For Refugees

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Quick refugee legislation will be one of the first jobs facing Congress when it convenes.

First it will be asked to consider bills now being written which will propose to give the 15,000 Hungarian refugees being admitted on "parole" status a "permanent resident" status.

This could be controversial legislation because it will have to specify what qualifications these refugees must meet in order to become permanent residents. Under the parole arrangement they really have no status at all. Until Congress acts they're in a legal no-man's land.

The first batch of 5,000 refugees — then increased to 6,500 — which the White House announced the United States would take, automatically get permanent resident status. They enter under the Refugee Relief Program which Congress created as a sort of stop-gap concession to demands for basic changes in the country's immigration laws.

This act authorized the issuance of 209,000 visas to refugees but with complicated qualifications. The law expires Dec. 31, 1956, with about 90 per cent of the available visas granted, which is a job well done considering the restrictions of the law.

However, the termination of that program is what raises the next big problem for the new Congress. Will it re-enact a stop-gap measure similar to the one which is dying? Or will it grapple with the more difficult problem of changing basic immigration legislation to liberalize the entrance of refugees?

Before the Hungarian uprising the administration was inclined to try the long route: basic changes in the law. Since then, with the satellite trouble indicating a greater flow of refugees during the coming months, the thinking is to seek another stop-gap law similar to the expiring refugee relief measure.

The experience with the administration of this law will influence what the White House will seek in a new one.

President Eisenhower's original request — which was turned down — was for unusual visa allotments to be shifted from areas where they were not needed to areas where they were needed. A White House spokesman explains:

"The President asked for this for the reason that there were thousands and thousands of refugees who were otherwise qualified and who would not receive visas because the allotments provided for the areas in which they found asylum were exhausted.

"This is a deplorable situation, that visas authorized to be issued to refugees should go unused merely because the refugees found asylum in the wrong country."

The emergency action of admitting the 15,000 Hungarians on parole status points to the need for more flexibility in the country's immigration laws, if it is the desire of the United States to give help to fugitives from Communist tyranny.

The fact that the public does want to open the United States to these refugees is dramatically demonstrated by the spontaneous offers of help and jobs for the Hungarians which it is now making.

Discussing the new legislation which the White House will seek from Congress, Pierce J. Gerety, deputy administrator of the refugee program, poses some of the questions involved:

"Can we continue to urge others to admit refugees who are suffering from tuberculosis but persist in a policy that totally excludes them from the United States?"

"Can we urge upon others resettlement schemes for the permanent solution of the so-called hard-core cases, the cases of the aged, infirm and unemployable, but persist in a policy of saying to any refugee who wants to come to the United States, 'You can only come if you have a guarantee of a job and housing and that you will not become a public charge?'"

"These questions we regard as requiring congressional action in January most urgently."

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

There are hiding places all over the house where gifts are shielded from the curious eyes of children of all ages. We want to surprise people with the presents which we are giving. There is an element of suspense in Christmas which makes the climax more impressive.

The coming of Christ was filled with suspense. The world was waiting for a Savior. Anticipation ran high. Prophecy was about to be fulfilled. Yet no one knew where Jesus was to be born.

When the advent really took place there was less fanfare than the political world expected. The legalists and the materialists were not sure that Christ had been born.

The materialists of today get little out of Christmas except a "let down" after the presents have been given. The followers of Christ find a continuing spirit of hope and faith following Christmas.

Washington Merry-Go-Round--

Drew Pearson Not So Hard-Hearted

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Drew Pearson, who digs into the secret lives of others, has kept his own big secret from the public. His fans would never suspect from his hard-hitting column, his angry voice on radio, his fights with Washington officialdom, that he is secretly a softie.

He's the kind of softie who'll be embarrassed over this column, yet softie enough not to fire me for writing it.

Drew usually ends up feeling sorry for those he exposes. His stories helped convict tax-fixer Henry Grunewald; but he started writing sympathetic stories after a tearful appeal from Grunewald's daughter. Drew also helped send influence-peddler John Maragon to jail, then wrote a letter in his behalf to the parole board and helped get him a job after his release.

Once Drew revealed that a Pentagon employee, Charles Dillon, secretly recorded a conversation with NBC executive Frank McCall. The Defense Department decided to fire Dillon for his bad manners. Drew anxiously phoned then-Deputy Secretary Steve Early and talked him out of such drastic punishment.

Stepinac Deal

Only a few intimates know how Drew got Cardinal Stepinac out of a Yugoslav jail. Drew persuaded the Yugoslav ambassador here that freeing Stepinac would improve American and Yugoslav relations. In return for the Cardinal's release, Drew offered to print any statement Marshal Tito cared to make.

Upon the ambassador's recommendation, Tito accepted the deal and let Stepinac go. The Yugoslav leader explained his action in a letter that Drew duly published. It was so lengthy, however, that several newspapers cut it. Result: Tito raised Cain, accused Drew of bad faith.

Drew tried to make the same deal with the Czechoslovakian ambassador for AP correspondent Bill Oatis' freedom, but the Czech government finally turned it down. Neither Oatis nor the AP ever knew what Drew tried to do.

Most people have also forgotten how Drew discovered the man who drugged Cardinal Mindszenty, Dr. Emil Weil, serving right here in Washington as Hungarian minister. Dr. Weil had helped torture Mindszenty by administering a drug during his Budapest trial. Drew promptly made it so hot for Weil that he was recalled.

Drew has been beamed by as many brickbats as he has hurled. Perhaps because of his Quaker upbringing, he has remarkable ability to shrug off abuse and turn the other cheek.

Retort to Winchell

Walter Winchell recently printed a wild, vicious attack on Drew. Friends urged him to sue for libel, or at least to slash back. Drew's reply over the microphone was characteristic: "Many years ago Walter did a lot of helpful things for me, and I'd rather remember those things than his more recent 'orchids.' My only answer is to suggest that you tune in on his new TV program Friday night. Give his rating a boost."

Drew may be a secret softie, but don't get the idea he lacks guts. During the 1952 campaign word leaked to vice presidential candidate Nixon that Drew was preparing to blast him. A Nixon aide phoned me and warned that Nixon would retaliate with a McCarthy-style attack on Drew. I relayed the message to the boss. I still remember his exact words.

"Okay, I'll change my story about Nixon," he said. "I'll make it stronger."

Nothing distresses Drew more than attacks on his veracity. He is the first to admit that he makes mistakes. But the best newsmen occasionally are misinformed by their sources, and the most respected papers have pulled boners.

Even Time Magazine, which recently sneered at Drew's 1956 predictions, has been wrong. (Example: Time forecast the week before election that the Republicans would win the House.) Actually Drew has done better than most political prophets. One prediction that Time decided came true right after the Time article went to press — namely that "Sir Anthony Eden, whose health is worse than the public realizes, will take a much less active part in the British government."

Hagerty Apologizes

No less than White House spokesman Jim Hagerty, who has often tangled with Drew in public, has apologized to him in private. Twice Jim was man enough to telephone and admit he had been wrong in denouncing Pearson stories.

Drew has probably notched up more solid scoops than any news sleuth alive. It would take pages to list them. (His most famous: He exposed the first Red spy ring in Washington, got hold of the income-tax returns of several big-time racketeers before the Kefauver crime hearings, wrote the stories that led to the congressional tax and RFC probes.)

The wire services commonly play up Pearson stories that backfire, but never mention his news beats. Another example of discrimination: The New York Times won the Pulitzer prize for revealing what happened at the secret Wake Island conference between President Truman and General MacArthur. Drew got nothing for printing exactly the same story, including verbatim quotes, six months ahead of the Times.

Costly Crusades

Right or wrong, Drew battles for what he believes is the public good. He waged a bitter battle against the Natural Gas bill, for example, because it would have boosted the oil and gas millionaires' profits at the housewives' expense. What he never mentioned, however, is that his crusading hurt his pocketbook. He happens to own gas-oil wells in Louisiana. His wife's family have also owned wells for years.

While Drew fought for higher taxes on the big brackets, he was probably the most heavily taxed reporter in the United States. Another thing few people know is how he paid the expenses of the French Mercier Train delegation when they came here to give thanks for the Friendship Train. It cost Drew $10,000 out of his own pocket.

Drew's happiest moments are when he is promoting people-to-people friendship, fighting for the independence of a little nation like Indonesia or offering a plan for world peace. He believes literally in making a democracy live.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Washington township quartet won the Farm Bureau contest at the First Baptist Church Friday night receiving the title of Pettis County champion and gained right to represent the county in the state contest to be held in connection with the Farm Bureau federation meeting Jan. 12. It was composed of Fred, Paul, Buster and Hubert Rothenberger.

1931
Ralph T. Compton, director of the department of taxation and government research Associated Industries of Missouri, gave a report on the tax survey of Pettis County at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and the county-wide committee of that body. Figures presented showed combined expenditures of Sedalia's city government and school district for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931 as school district, $303,635; city government including general government, protection, streets and other expenses, $187,255, a total of $490,890.

1931
Instructions were being given Pettis County housewives in community meetings by Miss Flora Lee Carl, nutrition specialist from the University of Missouri in charge. Mrs. Claire Montgomery, county home demonstration agent, was directing the meetings.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Dec. 19, a severe blizzard reached Sedalia after balmy weather conditions and a rapid drop in temperature came. At 9 a.m. Wednesday it was six above zero. The extreme cold kept prospective Christmas shoppers in their homes.

1916
Rev. B. V. Alton, a Methodist minister, left for his home at Corder, Mo., after a visit with friends here.

1916
Owing to severity of the weather the Rev. C. H. Briggs, pastor of the Fifth Street Methodist Church, announced usual prayer services at the church Wednesday evening would be called off.

1916
Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Harris left for Clarksburg, Mo., to spend the holiday season with relatives.

Odds and Ends

WHEN A MAN walked in the place he was employed on his day off, his small daughter with him, a woman co-worker noticed that he was all dressed up.

"Well, look at you all dressed up," she said, "new jacket, new shirt and all—are those Christmas gifts?"

"Yes," spoke up the tiny girl in disgust. "He opened all the packages and Christmas wasn't even there."—H.L.

GERRY, FOUR YEARS OLD, had a bad cold and he was telling his grandmother how he had asked God to make him get over his cold.

Grandmother thought it was very nice that Gerry said his prayers and then she asked him if his three-year-old brother said his prayers, too.

"Why, no," said Gerry, a little surprised at such a question. "He doesn't have a cold."—H.L.

Crossroads Comment by G. H. S.

A personal letter from the White House is the treasured possession of Mrs. Virginia Robinson, 1636 West Seventh Street. It was in reply to a letter of confidence she had written to the President, enclosing an editorial hunting invitation to Ike to visit Missouri.

"The President has asked me to thank you for your letter with its kind expressions," Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, wrote. "He is delighted to know of your confidence in his leadership and is sincerely grateful for the support of friends such as you which made victory possible on November sixth."

"He appreciates your thoughtfulness in sending him the article from The Sedalia Democrat entitled: 'A Hunting Invitation to Ike.' The words of welcome to Missouri which you endorse mean a great deal to him."

Mrs. Robinson is the wife of Lt. John K. Robinson, Whiteman Air Force Base.

Commenting on modern youth's disinclination to put one foot in front of the other to propel himself forward in a walking movement, a Sedalian remarked: "Why, I've fallen out of bed farther than some of today's kids have walked."

Some Sedalia merchants are already beginning to talk about the shopping district Christmas decorations — for 1957, that is. Others are talking about the 1956 decorations.

There's favorable comment about the Chamber of Commerce Christmas Home Decorations Contest this year putting "Christ Back In Christmas." That means abolishing the use of Xmas. X stands for an unknown quantity. Christ does not.

Yule Business Shows Rise Over Weekend

NEW YORK (AP) — "Christmas business," says a big New York retailer, "has been pretty awful. But it's coming to life now."

A leading Washington merchant, who had kept his fingers crossed during most of December, reports a sudden buying spurt last Friday and Saturday followed by "very strong" sales this week.

He says: "We think this shopping season will end up with a bang, not only locally but all over the country."

This sudden switch in retailer sentiment was disclosed in an Associated Press survey of Christmas shopping trend in 25 major cities. Up until last week, many merchants were despondent. Now some are beginning to smile again.

"It will be a good Christmas," says a department store executive in Pittsburgh. "Nothing can stop that."

Optimists who figure there might still be a good chance of beating last year's record buying binge are comparing the 1956 shopping pattern with 1951. Then as now, Christmas came after (rather than before) the fourth weekend in December, creating the illusion in many people's minds that they had more time to shop.

Merchants recall that Christmas sales in 1951 lagged during most of the season but that a sudden surge of buying in the final week swept retailers' shelves clean. Now, they contend, there are signs that 1951 may be repeated.

Consensus among retailers is that total Christmas sales will set new records but the gains over 1955 will be slight.

W. G. Austin, manager of the Kansas City Merchants Assn., states: "We can't possibly recover what has been lost so far this year. But I think the Christmas season is going to end up one per cent over last year."

In Chicago, W. T. White, general manager of Wieboldt's, asserts: "We have every reason to believe this year's sales will make or break the sales levels of last year." A spokesman for Goldblatt's cautiously adds: "It all depends on the weather."

Declines are looked for in the Pacific Northwest, where sagging demand for lumber has depressed wages and heavy snows have snarled traffic. Portland, Ore., merchants say business is off about 5 per cent. In Seattle, where a heavy snowstorm was preceded by a bus strike, earlier hopes for a 3 to 8 per cent increase have been tossed aside.

Newspaper strikes have cut into Christmas sales in Kansas City and Cleveland.

Boston retailers are counting on an 11th hour spending spree, with credit figuring prominently as a sales tool.

Richmond, Va., stores complain that high costs are eating into profits. Texas merchants expect profits to be lower this season despite a 3 per cent gain in sales. Philadelphia's big John Wanamaker store says its sales should be up 3 to 5 per cent. Gimbel's and Macy's in New York balk at over the house. From the kitchen comes the wonderful fragrance of cookies, candies and yeast breads. Does this sound like Christmas to you?

If you like the idea of baking a substantial yeast bread, to balance fancy cookies and candies, we suggest the following recipe. You can bake this bread in two round 9-inch layer-cake pans and the loaves will come out glowing and ruddy. Decorate the bread with poinsettias made from confectioners' sugar frosting and candied cherries.

Serve this bread fresh from the oven for any of your holiday entertaining; or put it away and slice and toast it later. We like to toast slices of the bread on one side under the broiler; then we butter the untoasted sides and return them to toast. This way the bread gets slightly crisp and is beautifully buttery—delicious with tea or coffee.

POINSETTIA CHRISTMAS BREAD

Ingredients:  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup milk,  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon ground cardamom, 6 tablespoons butter or margarine,  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup warm (near 105 degrees) water, 3 packages active dry yeast, 3 eggs,  $7\frac{1}{2}$  cups sifted flour, 1 cup raisins (rinsed in hot water and drained), milk, confectioners' sugar frosting, chopped candied cherries.

Method: Scald  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup milk; stir in sugar, salt, cardamom and butter; cool to lukewarm. Measure water into a large mixing bowl; sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture. Beat eggs thoroughly for a few minutes; add them to yeast mixture with about half the flour; beat until smooth. Stir in raisins. Stir in remaining flour. Turn out on lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in a greased bowl; grease top of dough. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 1½ hours. Punch down; divide dough in half. Shape each portion into round loaf. Place in greased round layer-cake pans (9 by about 1½ inches). Let rise until doubled in bulk — about 50 minutes. Brush with milk. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven about 45 minutes. To decorate, make a poinsettia on top of each loaf with confectioners' sugar frosting; sprinkle frosting with chopped candied cherries. Makes 2 loaves. Nice served fresh from the oven on a white plate with a garnish of holly leaves.

Missouri Division of Resources and Development

What's your share of a half-million - dollar community pay raise?

Many Missouri communities have had such pay raises during the past year in the form of added wages from new and expanding manufacturing industries, new plant and plant expansion, during 1956, amounted to more than 18½ million dollars, according to latest available figures compiled by Missouri's Division of Resources and Development.

Richard M. Kinne, chief of the Division's Industrial Section, said that the figures cover only the first 11 months of the year, and indicated that later information will boost the total higher. Thus far this year investments have been made in 132 new plants or expansions.

Investments in special industries, such as transportation facilities, communications and utilities, amounted to nearly 42 millions, during the first six months of the year. Expansions in such service industries have been made necessary because of our rapidly growing population.

Of the 18½ million-dollar manufacturing investment, well over three millions went for new industries and more than 15 millions for plant expansions. Investments ranged from less than $6,000 to more than two million, covered some 27 different trade territories over the state, created about 3,700 new job opportunities and added more than 8¼ millions in wages.

Largest investments in manufacturing were made in plants turning out transportation equipment, machinery (not including electrical), and food products, in that order. These investments represent nearly one-half of the total investment.

Using new plant investments and their resulting added income as a yardstick, it is possible to measure benefits accrued by one particular locality. What does added income mean to you — and your town?

Let's say, for example, that you live in a city of 25,000 population. A new industry has come to town this past year, bringing with it a payroll of about one-half million dollars and opportunities for employment of about 150 persons.

More valuable to your community than the initial new income are benefits resulting from that income. To measure these benefits, we must, first of all, determine how industry fits into your community. The labor and skills of persons employed by the industry in your community are used to manufacture products which are then transported and sold in other communities throughout the nation. A major part of the selling price of these products returns from the other communities to your own in the form of the weekly payroll.

Since this payroll money comes from outside your town, it generates what is commonly termed the wages of basic employment. These wages create a demand for goods and services. To satisfy these needs, retail stores are established and professional men, such as doctors and teachers, offer their services. Wages going to shopkeepers, shoe clerks, druggists and professional men are commonly termed the wages of secondary employment. Thus, it is apparent that one cannot exist without the other. Both are essential to the well being of your community.

Trade stimulated by the existence of a new industry bears fruit through many of the businesses which form the economy of your town. It has been estimated that each dollar of income brought into a community changes hands three to four times. Consequently, that one-half-million pay raise, in the end, amounts to 1½ to two million dollars increase in total personal income for your community.

Added income from a new industry employing 150 persons creates jobs for about 1,200 persons in secondary employment; adds 430 automobiles to the town for sale and service; creates a need for nine new class rooms; leads to the support of 22 additional stores and shops; creates a need for 48 professional men; and increases food sales by about $470,000.

These estimates are based on information provided by the U. S. Bureau of the Census, Census of Manufacturing in Missouri, Automobile Manufacturers Association, Missouri Department of Education, U. S. Department of Commerce; and the U. S. Department of Labor.

A nation-wide survey of businesses' future plans was conducted recently by the McGraw-Hill Department of Economics. Results of the survey indicated that businesses plan a tremendous outlay for the establishment of new plants and expansions in 1957, '58, and '59. As a leader in our nation's industries, Missouri can expect to share in that continuing growth.

The most important feature of the survey shows a high level of expenditures already planned for the next three years. The number

Otterville PTA Has Program by Pupils

The Otterville PTA met Tuesday evening, Dec. 11, at the school. The meeting, presided over by the president, Mrs. Ralph McDowell, was opened by singing led by Mrs. Danny T. Glenn, accompanied by Mrs. A. Mendenhall. The devotion-al was read by Pat Dunham.

After the regular business, Mrs. Mendenhall reported on the purchase of a new school piano, and members of the PTA voted to buy the one recommended by the committee.

A Christmas program was presented by the elementary grades. Patty Kuykendall played a piano solo, before Sandra Glenn sang a solo. Grades one and two sang before they gave a pantomime. Grade five then sang, followed by grade four.

Jerry Ann Mayfield played a piano solo before grade six sang two songs. To conclude the program, grade three recited a poem and sang "Jolly Old Saint Nicholas."

Alarmist Bitten

BLUEFIELD, W.Va. (AP)—A man with an excited voice told the switchboard operator at Bluefield Sanitarium, "I've been bitten by a snake!"

He said his head ached and his arm was swelling. Serum was rushed to the hospital. A surgeon stood by.

Then the man walked in. Doctors found he had been stung by a bee.

of companies providing specific plans was the greatest of all previous surveys.

Another key feature of the survey showed that industries' future plans include the manufacture of products not made previously. Some of the proposed new products are still on the drafting boards.

As was true in Missouri during the past year, greatest capital investments planned for the future will be made by service industries and in such manufacturing industries of transportation equipment, machinery and food products.

Certainly Missouri and the nation can look forward to a prosperous new year.
